Please note:

China General Technology (Group) Holding Co Ltd (Genertec) is a wholly-state-owned company established in March 1998. As the fruit of China's strategic restructuring of state-owned enterprises, Genertec grouped six companies, including the China National Technical Import and Export Corp, China National Machinery Import and Export (Group) Corp, China National Instruments Import and Export Corp , China National Corporation for Overseas Economic Corporation, China National Medicine and Health Products Import and Export Corp and China International Advertising Corp. By merging these large foreign trade companies, most of which had a history of about 50 years, and fully exploiting their resources advantages, Genertec becomes a large-scale, specialized, intensive and integrated business with dramatically improved market competitiveness, anti-risk capability and comprehensive profitability. (http://www.genertec.com.cn/en/brief/descript/descript.htm, accessed 15 Mar 07)

China National Offshore Oil Corporation (CNOOC), the country's largest offshore oil producer, has acquired China National Chemical Construction Corporation (CNCCC). The merger - announced on 22 October 2006 by the State-owned Assets Supervision and Administration Commission (SASAC) - will enable CNOOC to sharpen its competitiveness by using CNCCC's skills in fertilizer production, chemical research, engineering design and international trade, according to Fu Chengyu, CNOOC general manager. CNOOC is China's third largest oil company. Having focused on oil and natural gas exploration and production, it has been trying to expand into oil refining, petrochemicals and international trade. By the end of 2005, the company had 191.4 billion yuan (23.93 billion U.S. dollars) in assets and a sales volume of 88.9 billion yuan. CNCCC is also a central state-owned enterprise (SOE), with total assets of 2.7 billion yuan and a sales volume of 4.2 billion yuan in 2005. As restructuring and mergers continue, the number of China's central SOEs has decreased from 198 in April 2003 - when the SASAC was established - to 165 this year. (PDE, 23 Oct 06)

Russia (Mar 27)

Chinese and Russian enterprises signed 21 agreements and contracts worth 4.3 billion U.S. dollars after the opening ceremony of China's national exhibition in Moscow. Russian First Deputy Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev, Chinese Vice Premier Wu Yi and Russian Economic Development and Trade Minister German Gref took part in the signing ceremony. Among those agreements and contracts, 17 trade deals valued at about 3.7 billion dollars were signed. These include exports of Chinese cars, home appliances and farm products to Russia, as well as imports of Russian machine tools and silicic steel plates to China. Four economic cooperation projects worth 586 million dollars in timber processing, shipbuilding and mining were also inked. Double-digit growth has been registered in two-way trade for the past eight years. Trade volume hit a record 33.4 billion U.S. dollars in 2006, up 15 percent from the previous year, according to Chinese Commerce Ministry figures. The two countries have decided to raise the volume of bilateral trade to 60-80 billion dollars by 2010, and the investment of China in Russia to 12 billion dollars by 2020. XNA, 27 Mar 07)

... In a joint declaration, China's President Hu Jintao and Russian President Vladimir Putin said energy co-operation "will give a tangible impulse to economic growth and will strengthen the energy security of Russia and China." The declaration said that the two countries would further develop oil, gas and electricity ties and "large bilateral co-operation projects in the energy sphere." Russia's state railways chief Vladimir Yakunin also signed an agreement with his Chinese counterpart on boosting the shipments of Russian crude to China by railway tank car. He told reporters that railways could carry 15 million tons of oil exports to China this year, compared to 10 million tons exported last year. ... Agreements were also signed between Russian and Chinese banks and between the space agencies of the two countries. ...(SCMP, 27 Mar 07).

... The presidents oversaw the signing of 21 contracts, including an agreement by Russian state oil company Rosneft to supply jet fuel to China, and long-term export contracts for a number of Russian steel products. Among the biggest contracts was a US$460 million agreement by Russia's Novolipetsk Steel to supply 94,000 tonnes of steel to Chinese electrical parts maker Tebian Electric Apparatus Stock until 2011. ... China received a total of 15 million tonnes of Russian oil last year, and analysts say it is eager to secure guarantees for more. ... Other agreements were signed between Russian and Chinese banks and space agencies. ... Major Agreements: 15 million tonnes of crude oil to be delivered to China by rail a year, a US$460m agreement to supply 94,000 tonnes of steel to a Chinese firm, a US$300m business centre in Moscow, demarcation of the eastern border between China and Russia to be completed by the end of the year, Chinese support for Russia's bid to become a member of the World Trade Organisation. (SCMP, 28 Mar 07)

China will launch a joint mission with Russia to Mars. The agreement was signed during a three-day visit to Russia by China's president Hu Jintao. A small satellite developed by China will piggyback on the Russian launch of a spacecraft called "Phobos Grunt", probably in October 2009. In a statement, the China National Space Administration said the agreement "indicates the two sides have taken a key step forward to working together on a large space programme." After entering orbit around the Red Planet, the Chinese micro-satellite will detach from the Russian spacecraft, and probe the Martian space environment, according to the statement. The Russian spacecraft will touch down on the Martian moon Phobos and collect soil samples for return to Earth. There was no mention of a timetable in the Chinese space agency statement. But earlier Russian reports said the launch window for the 10-11 month voyage to Phobos, Mars' largest moon, will be in October 2009. The agreement was signed by the China National Space Administration head Sun Laiyan and Russian Federal Space Agency (Roscosmos) chief Anatoly Perminov and witnessed by the two countries' presidents. #### Venezuela (Mar 26)

Venezuela and China created a US$6 billion fund to boost energy co-operation and finance joint development projects between the two countries. Venezuela's President Hugo Chavez said the fund "will provide the fuel for the acceleration of new bilateral development projects", including two joint ventures for the exploration and production of heavy crude in Venezuela's Orinoco Basin and three oil refineries in China. The fund - aimed at increasing Venezuelan oil exports to China from 150,000 to 800,000 barrels per day - was part of a series of agreements signed following a meeting between Mr Chavez and China's Communist Party ideology chief Li Changchun, at the presidential palace. "We have brought bilateral relations to a strategic point," Mr Chavez said. "I don't think China has make a decision like this with any other country in half a century. We must thank them for their trust." Venezuela would invest US$2 billion in the fund, which would also be used to build railroads, telecommunications networks and shipyards in the South American country, while China would allocate US$4 billion. ... The Property Law of the People's Republic of China has been adopted by the Fifth Session of the 10th National People's Congress of the PRC on 16 March 2007 and is hereby promulgated for implementation beginning from 1 October 2007. (Presidential Decree No 62, signed by State President Hu Jintao on 16 March 2007) (Full text: RMRB, 20 Mar 07)

Beijing, March 16 (Xinhua) - China's top legislature, the National People's Congress (NPC), adopted property rights law, granting equal protection to public and private properties. It only took less than a minute for the nearly 3,000 NPC lawmakers to pass the much-revised bill, which had gone through a lengthy legislation process of more than 13 years and a record seven readings, by an overwhelming majority as the NPC concluded its annual full session in the Great Hall of the People in downtown Beijing. The lawmakers applauded warmly after NPC Standing Committee Chairman Wu Bangguo announced the voting results. A total of 2,799 lawmakers voted for the law and 52 against. Thirty-seven abstained and one didn't cast vote. The 247-article law, which is due to come into effect as of Oct. 1, 2007, stipulates that "the property of the state, the collective, the individual and other obligees is protected by law, and no units or individuals may infringe upon it". This is the first time that equal protection to state and private properties has been enshrined in a Chinese law, which analysts say marks a significant step in the country's efforts to further economic reforms and boost social harmony. The Enterprise Income Tax Law of the People's Republic of China was adopted by the Fifth Session of the 10th National People's Congress of the PRC on 16 March 2007 and is hereby promulgated for implementation beginning from 1 January 2008. (Presidential Decree No 63, signed by State President Hu Jintao on 16 March 2007) This law consists of eight chapters with 60 articles. (Full text: RMRB, 20 Mar 07)

Under the Corporate IncomeTax Law, which will take effect from January 1, 2008, income tax rates for domestic and overseas-funded enterprises will be unified to 25 per cent. An estimate based on a national survey of company income tax sources shows the current average tax burden on foreign-funded firms is 15 per cent, compared with 25 per cent for domestic companies. "China, for a very long period of time, has imposed a much lower corporate tax rate on foreign firms than on their Chinese counterparts. For me it makes no sense. The tax burden has put domestic companies in an unfavourable position," said Nobel laureate and US economist Joseph E. Stiglitz earlier this month. (XNA, 17 Mar 07) Only 37 NPC delegates cast opposing votes. (SCMP, 16 Mar 07)

Regulation on the establishment and size of local governments, adopted at the State Council's 169th executive meeting on 14 February 2007. The regulation will become effective as of 1 May 2007. (Decree No. 486 of the PRC State Council, signed by Wen Jiabao, Premier of the State Council, on 24 February 2007) (Full text: RMRB, 9 Mar 07) The regulation consist of six chapters with 30 articles.

The regulation requires local governments at all levels to set up minimal, unified and efficient departments with reasonable numbers of staff. The establishment of departments should be based on comprehensive consideration of responsibilities and ensure coordinated efforts in carrying out policies and decisions. Departments with similar or identical duties should be unified by negotiation, and the final decision should be made by local governments if any disputes occur. Meanwhile, the regulation limits the authorized size of local governments to within local financial resources, and bans the establishment of additional departments or recruitment of more staff. Legal responsibilities and penalties for overstaffing are clarified in the regulation, said an official with the Legislative Affairs Office of the State Council. To enforce the regulation, it requires improved management and supervision, and stipulates penalties for officials who set up, unite, cancel or rename government departments without authorization. It also calls for more efforts to publicize the regulation among officials and government employees. The regulation will be effective from May 1. (XNA, 6 Mar 07)

Regulation on the Employment of Handicapped People, adopted at the State Council's 169th executive meeting on 14 February 2007. The regulation will become effective as of 1 May 2007. (Decree No. 488 of the PRC State Council, signed by Wen Jiabao, Premier of the State Council, on 25 February 2007) (Full text: RMRB, 8 Mar 07) The regulation consist of six chapters with 30 articles.

Beijing, March 6 (Xinhua) - China will implement a new regulation to promote employment opportunities for the country's 83 million handicapped people. The regulation, issued last month by the State Council, China's cabinet, requires that handicapped people make up no less than 1.5 per cent of the work force of government departments, enterprises and institutions. Handicapped employees must be given equal promotion opportunities and equal salaries and social insurance, according to the regulation which comes into effect on May 1. Statistics show that China has 82.96 million handicapped people but only 22.66 million are employed. More than 8.58 million employable handicapped people have no jobs, and their number increases by 300,000 a year. Government departments, institutions and enterprises that employ more handicapped people will enjoy preferential tax and other policies, said the regulation. Self-employed handicapped will enjoy preferential treatment in tax and other management and registration charges. They can also get small loans when starting their own businesses, according to the regulation. Handicapped people living in rural areas are encouraged to engage in cultivation, stock raising and handicraft industries, and will be given technical, material and financial support. Funds to promote employment among handicapped people and to provide them with employment training and services will be part of the government budget, the regulation says. Organizations providing employment services to the handicapped should offer free information, training and job introduction services and compile statistics. (XNA, 6 Mar 07)

China's State Council has approved a regulation on the management of the National Natural Science Fund that aims to discourage fraud and ensure funds are properly spent. Xinhua News Agency on 5 March was authorized to release the full text of the regulation, after the State Council collected public submissions on how science projects should be sponsored, supervised and managed. Composed of 43 articles in seven chapters, the regulation stresses that any person who commits the crime of embezzling or misappropriating funding will be banned for life from applying for further funding. The regulation also stipulates that those who cheat in research will be banned from applying for funding for up to seven years. The regulation, effective from April 1, states that the establishment of the Natural Science Fund aims to assist basic research and the main source of the fund is central finance. The central government sets the budget for the natural science fund, but it encourages donations from individuals and organizations. A managing body set up by the State Council is responsible for the management and supervision of sponsored projects. The body will also set out plans and guidelines on the use of funds in accordance with national economic and social development strategies, and list priorities of fields or projects to be sponsored. Special financial assistance should be given for training young talent in science and technology, according to the regulation. A series of scandals at China's top universities last year raised public concern over the supervision of academics at higher-learning institutions. In May, Chen Jin, a dean at Shanghai Jiaotong University, was fired for faking state-funded research on the Hanxin computer chip, and Liu Hui, of Tsinghua University, was dismissed as professor in March for forging academic achievements and work experience. China's investment in science and technology reached an estimated 71.6bn yuan (8.95bn US dollars) in 2006, up 19.2 per cent from 2005, said Minister of Science and Technology Xu Guanhua last year. The National Natural Science Fund was established in 1981 to sponsor research in critical areas. The fund has since assisted nearly 100,000 research projects with 20bn yuan (2.5bn US dollars). (XNA, 5 Mar 07)

Beijing, March 10 (Xinhua) - In a bid to strengthen drug registration, China's drug watchdog is revising the existing drug registration and management provisions and will put the new one into effect this year. State Food and Drug Administration released the revised version on 10 March to solicit public opinions on drug registration and management. "The new draft is focused on closing registration loopholes in existing provisions and encouraging researches of new drugs," said Wu Zhen, deputy director of the Administration. Consisting of 15 chapters, or 211 articles, the new provisions is drafted according to China's Drug Management Law and based on extensive researches and expert opinions. Several drug safety incidents occurred in China last year, the most notorious one causing the deaths of at least six patients and severe side-effects in more than 80 others. (XNA. 10 Mar 07)

Beijing, March 12 (Xinhua) - China's Health Ministry plans to tighten control over the varieties of the same drug hospitals can offer to patients, who have often been tricked into buying more expensive medications. The new regulation, which will take effect on May 1, allows hospitals to offer patients the same type of drug from only two pharmaceutical companies. Drugs producers have been accused of changing the name of their drugs and re-pricing them to escape price controls set by China's National Development and Reform Commission. The new regulation also urges doctors to provide the most "economical" prescription as they have been seen to prescribe more expensive drugs for which they receive kickbacks. The regulation also forbids the distribution of prescription drugs by anyone other than a doctor. (XNA, 12 Mar 07)

Note: CPI (A), CPI(B) and CPI(C) are compiled based on the expenditure patterns of households in the relatively low, medium and relatively high expenditure ranges respectively. A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974.

Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
