Beijing, Sept. 29 (Xinhua) - China Investment Corporate Ltd. Lou Jiwei, current deputy secretary-general of the State Council, was appointed as the CIC's board chairman. Other board members include two executive directors Gao Xiqing and Zhang Hongli, five non-executive directors - Zhang Xiaoqiang, Li Yong, Fu Ziyang, Liu Shiyu and Hu Xiaolian, one independent director Liu Zhongli and one director to be elected from the company's employees. Gao Xiqing is [was] now vice-chairman of the National Social Security Foundation. [Zhang Hongli was vice-minister of finance.] Li Yong is vice finance minister. Zhang Xiaoqiang is vice-chairman of the National Development and Reform Commission (NDRC), Fu Ziyang assistant minister of commerce, Liu Shiyu central bank vice governor, Hu Xiaolian head of the State Administration of Foreign Exchange (SAFE) and Liu Zhongli former finance minister. The company, to be operated in a completely commercial way despite its governmental backup, will mainly pursue combined investment in overseas financial markets. "It will deal with its forex investment business independently by persisting in the principle of separating government functions from company management," the sources said. The company will try to maximize the proceeds via long-term investments within a range of acceptable risks, said the sources. At the end of August, China's Ministry of Finance announced it would use forex purchased with returns from a 600bn-yuan (67.79bn US dollars) special treasury bond sale to finance the CIC. China's forex reserve had reached 1.33 trillion US dollars by the end of June. (XNA, 29 Sep 07)

Xi has been slated to take over Zeng Qinghong's portfolios, which includes management of the Party's day-to-day affairs, the vice-presidency and Hong Kong affairs. He follows Zeng Qinghong in heading the all-important Secretariat, the powerful executive body in charge of the day-to-day affairs of the decision-making Politburo. He has taken over the Central Coordinating Group for Hong Kong and Macau Work. (TS, 27 Oct 07; SCMP, 29 Oct 07) Xi ranked 6th in the Party hierarchy. He is a „princeling“. His father Xi Zhongxun was a former vice-premier and architect of China's Special Economic Zones.

Xi Jinping, 54, was trained as a chemical engineer at the prestigious Qinghua University and much later got doctorate in law. Earlier this year, Xi was appointed Party chief of China's commercial and financial hub Shanghai and has brought many new looks on the eastern municipality after a corruption scandal felled his predecessor Chen Liangyu, who is now under criminal investigation for alleged illegal use of 3.2 billion-yuan (427 million U.S. dollars) social security funds. A native of north China's Shaanxi Province, Xi said he had spent "his most memorable time", about 17 years, in Fujian, a southeastern economic powerhouse that is just opposite to Taiwan. While steering the Fujian provincial government, Xi encouraged better public services for increasing trade between Fujian and Taiwan. "Ma-Shang-Jiu-Ban", the Chinese for "Go and handle it", is his trademark tag for efficiency. After being promoted in November 2002 to the post of Party secretary of the CPC Zhejiang Provincial Committee, Xi mapped out a package of measures ranging from ecology to culture to foster harmonious development in the province. The 17th CCP CC elected new leading organizations and members of the new CCDI. It elected He Guoqiang as CCDI secretary and another eight CCDI deputy secretaries. Among them, Zhang Yi, deputy secretary of the CCP Hebei Provincial Committee, was recently promoted as deputy secretary and secretary-general of the CCDI. A figure from Beijing political circle said: Zhang Yi was the first full-time party deputy secretary who was transferred to another post since the CCP completed its change of terms in 31 provinces and municipalities in the first half of 2007. An informed figure analysed: The transfer of Zhang Yi, full-time party deputy secretary who was in charge of party affairs in Hebei, probably was related to the fact that he had been director of a provincial government supervision department and deputy secretary and secretary of a provincial-level party committee discipline inspection commission for quite some time. His promotion could be termed as professionally appropriate.

The 57-year-old Zhang Yi was born in Beian, Heilongjiang in August 1950. He graduated from Northeast Forestry Institute's Department of Forestry Economics, specializing in forestry economic management. He was a senior coordinator of human relations with a college-level education. In October 2001, he was transferred to the CCP Hebei Provincial Committee and later became a fulltime party deputy secretary in charge of party affairs. At present, among the eight deputy secretaries, Zhang Yi ranks behind Gan Yisheng but ahead of Huang Shuxian and Li Yufu. (Wen Wei Po website, Hong Kong, 25 Oct 07, in BBC PF, 30 Oct 07)

Mozambique (Sep 26)

MAPUTO, Sept. 27 (Xinhua) -- The Mozambican and Chinese governments have signed an agreement in Maputo on bilateral cooperation for the period 2008-2009, aimed at strengthening bilateral trade and economic relations, according to the local media AIM on Thursday.

The document was signed on Wednesday by Mozambique's Deputy Foreign Minister, Eduardo Koloma, and the Chinese Assistant Minister of Commerce Fu Ziyang, during the third meeting of the joint Commission for Technical, Economic and Trade Activities, the news agency said.

At the signing ceremony, the two sides drew up a balance sheet of their activities since the last session, held in April 2004, and made work plans for the period until the next meeting, scheduled for 2009.

Having concluded that this cooperation was positive during the last few years, they agreed as priorities the areas of education, health, agriculture, infrastructures and sports.

It was in this context that the Chinese government has pledged 55 million U.S. dollars for the building of an Agricultural Technology Center, a project that was announced during the visit of Chinese President Hu Jintao to Mozambique in February.

China is also granting 300,000 dollars to support the rehabilitation of infrastructures destroyed by natural disasters in the country.

Speaking on the occasion, Fu Ziyang described the signing of these agreements as a moment to strengthen friendship and cooperation between the two countries and renew the Chinese commitment to support Mozambique in the fight to reduce poverty and underdevelopment, and in all efforts to improve the socioeconomic conditions of the Mozambican people.

Koloma stressed the importance of the 30 years of cooperation between Mozambique and China, and claimed that, at international level, the two countries harmonize common strategic positions for the preservation of peace, defense and security, sovereignty and territorial integrity. (XNA, 28 Sep 07)

Uganda (Sep 21)

China has waived Uganda's 17m dollars (30bn shillings) debt and promised to do more to boost economic ties with Uganda. China's Assistant Minister for Commerce, Fu Ziyang, made the announcement during the signing of five protocols on economic and technical cooperation with finance minister, Dr Ezra Suruma. The agreements signed included; the protocol on cancellation of the 17m dollars debt, an agreement to provide a grant of 6.8m dollars (12bn shillings) and a letter of exchange for the construction of a government office block. Other protocols signed were for the construction of two rural schools and a hospital. He said China had granted tariff-free and quota-free treatment to more than 400 commodities from Uganda, while coffee was granted preferential treatment. Ziyang said China would intensify efforts to convince more Chinese companies to invest in Uganda. "About 20 years ago, Chinese enterprises were like the Ugandan small and medium enterprises [SME], lacking knowledge on expanding to the international market. We have experience on trade promotion. In future under a training programme, we can provide specific training on exploring international markets for SMEs," Ziyang said. Chinese President Hu Jintao hosted African leaders at an unprecedented summit in Beijing in November last year and offered billions of dollars in loans, aid and debt write-offs. Beijing, Sept. 21 (Xinhua) - The State Council, China's cabinet, issued its Regulations on Management of Large Scale Mass Activities on Friday, adopting stricter security measures to tighten control over such events.

The statute, signed by Premier Wen Jiabao, requires organizers of "large scale mass activities" to apply for official approval from security departments 20 days in advance.

"Large-scale mass activities" refer to those events with more than 1,000 participants, such as sports events, concerts, exhibitions, fairs, and firework displays.

"With a large number of participants, large-scale mass activities present more security problems and high risks," said an official with the Legislative Affairs Office of the State Council, without giving his name.

Over 14,000 large-scale mass activities of various kinds are held annually throughout the country, with a total of nearly 300 million participants, according to the official.

"In such events, accidents and criminal activities have occasionally taken place. Some even led to major incidents which jeopardized people's lives and public security," he said.

"It is quite essential and exigent to stipulate such a statute to specify security responsibilities and measures for supervision and management, so as to ensure the safety of large-scale mass activities," he said.

According to the regulations, people who have organized large-scale mass activities without official permission will be fined 100,000 yuan (about 13,300 US dollars) to 300,000 yuan (39,900 US dollars).

And those who change the time, venue, content or scale of activities permitted by security organs will be fined 10,000 yuan (about 1,330 US dollars) to 50,000 yuan (3,990 US dollars).

The statute also demands security departments to work out plans to deal with emergencies and blue prints of security supervision over large-scale mass activities.

It is to take effect from October 1, 2007. (XNA, 21 Sep 07)

State Council Premier Wen Jiabao

Central Military Commission Chairman Hu Jintao

18 October 2007

(Xinhua, 29 Oct 07, in BBC PF, 31 Oct 07)

BEIJING, Oct. 15 (Xinhua) -- The State Council, China's cabinet, issued regulations for national survey of pollution sources. The content of the 42-article statute, signed by Premier Wen Jiabao, was not specified but the State Council said it outlined "the scope, content and measures" of the first national survey to identify the whereabouts of the country's worst polluters, which will begin in 2008 and be completed the following year. The regulations stipulate that any officials, survey compilers and survey respondents who falsify data should be "criticized, punished or fined". The national survey will be conducted every ten years, according to the regulations. The Chinese government set a target of reducing discharges of major pollutant discharges by ten percent over the 11th five-year plan period ending in 2010, but fell well short of its goal last year, prompting China's leaders to announce the introduction of a national survey. The survey is aimed at determining the number, sector and geographical distribution of the country's polluters in the country. "The regulations aim to ensure the survey is carried out scientifically and effectively and the data obtained is accurate," said a statement from the Legislative Affairs Office of the State Council on Monday. In recent years, China's rapid economic growth has given rise to greater pollution and the existing data has been insufficient for environmental surveillance. Statistics show that there are more than 1.45 million industrial enterprises in China, but only 80,000 of them have been included in the government's key surveillance data. (XNA, 15 Oct 07)

Beijing, Oct. 28 (Xinhua) - China's top legislature adopted a draft amendment to the Law on Lawyers which will make it easier for lawyers to meet criminal suspects and obtain evidence.

The draft amendment to the Law on Lawyers was approved after being put to the vote at the end of the five-day session of the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress (NPC) after the third reading.

Chinese attorneys have long complained of difficulties in meeting criminal suspects and having access to files and evidence when defending criminal cases.

The amendment says lawyers, provided they have the requisite papers such as their legal practitioner certificate, are entitled to meet criminal suspects or defendants in person once judicial organs have finished their initial interrogation or taken mandatory measures.

Defence attorneys and criminal suspects will not be monitored when they have a conversation, the amendment said, and defence lawyers are entitled to look up all files and materials relating to the case.

Defence lawyers are entitled to apply to prosecuting organs and people's courts to collect and provide relevant evidence, and use courts to get witnesses to testify in court.

Lawyers, with requisite papers, may collect evidence themselves from relevant organizations or individuals, the amendment says.

To protect lawyers, the draft amendment specifies that opinions and remarks made by defence lawyers in court -provided they do not threaten national security or slander others -cannot lead to prosecution.

Judicial organs that decide to detain or arrest a lawyer suspected of involvement in a crime related to a case during the proceedings, must inform the lawyer's family relatives and his or her law firm, as well as the lawyer association within 24 hours, the amendment says.

The amendment also allows lawyers who have been practicing for five years -provided they didn't have their licence suspended over the past three years -to establish individual law firms.

China now has more than 130,000 lawyers working in 13,000 law firms. In 2006 alone, Chinese lawyers dealt with more than 1.8 million litigation cases and 1.15 million non-litigation cases and provided legal aid in more than 5.2 million cases, according to statistics from the Ministry of Justice.

The Law on Lawyers was implemented on Jan. 1, 1997. It is the first revision to the law since its promulgation. (XNA, 28 Oct 07)
